

National Printing Office

Legal Basis

- Philippine Commission Act No. 296 (November 7, 1901) created the Bureau of Printing in recognition of the importance of having a printing arm for government publications.
- Integrated Reorganization Plan (March 3, 1972) renamed the Bureau of Printing to Government Printing Office with essentially the same functions.
- Executive Order No. 285 (July 25, 1987) renamed the Government Printing Office as National Printing Office, placing it under the supervision of the Office of the Press Secretary.

Mandate

The National Printing Office (NPO) serves as the government's printing arm tasked with the printing of government accountable forms, official election ballots, the Official Gazette and other public documents, ensuring that these comply with the quality and security standards required by the government. It also undertakes the printing information materials of the Philippine Information Agency, Office of the Press Secretary, and the Office of the President.
